A Natural Partnership: Experiential Learning and Social-Emotional Skills

Schools have increasingly focused on social-emotional skills to enhance students’ sense of belonging and self-confidence. Research has correlated belonging and agency to positive experiences and academic achievement in K-12 schools. Is there a particular STEM curriculum or program best designed to accomplish this? What skills should be emphasized in the classroom to encourage holistic development and intellectual growth? Join this professional development to get answers to these questions and more. (In-person)

Equity in STEM Curricula

What does teaching science, technology, engineering, and math mean from a diverse perspective while engaging underrepresented students with a social justice lens? Try community-based projects. This workshop will offer suggestions and help you develop the best pedagogy for your students. (In-person)

Planning MLK Day of Service

Let us plan and implement your school’s MLK Day for you! We start with a free consultation with you to determine your goals and learn more about your community. From there, we will produce a meaningful day for all! (online)

Coaching New Directors of Equity and Inclusion

We provide the necessary support and offer concrete steps for new (1-3 yrs.) DEI practitioners to advance equity and inclusion within the school community. New practitioners must first define and be able to articulate the scope of their role clearly, the goals they are expected to achieve, and the timeline for achieving the goals, all while considering the priorities established by their institution. Consulting services are offered in either small groups or one-on-one formats. (Online and In-person)

The Circle Way

Learning and practicing peaceful ways of communicating about sensitive issues, or when conflict and disagreements arise, can be achieved using circles as an intervention and as a way of building a restorative community. Circles help build community and strengthen relationships while allowing everyone to be heard and feel safe in your community. (Online and In-person)

Unconscious Bias

Let's not let unconscious (implicit) bias stand in the way of teaching the whole child or working with colleagues different from you. We want the best for all our students and ourselves, but we have work to do if we don't know that some of our statements and actions leave harm instead of healing in their wake! (online and In-person)

Seeking Educational Equity and Diversity (SEED) Seminars

Join us in a National SEED Project seminar, facilitated activity, or structured conversation for personal and institutional transformation. Participants are invited to share and learn from themselves and the shelves. Ongoing sessions can be monthly or at varying lengths, including one 90-minute introduction session. There is no set length, but we encourage at least eight sessions. (Online and In-person)
